

Unfortunately, it could be you.

We all dream of winning the lottery, even with odds of 14 million to 1.

However, when it comes to the lottery of life we all think critical illness will never happen to us.

Sadly, the chances of a critical illness striking close to home are higher than you may think. Look at the statistics from protection provider Bright Grey below.

44% of claims were made by people under 40.

The youngest person to claim for cancer was 28.

The youngest heart attack claimant was 35.

We're all natural optimists, but even just a little bit of cover would reduce the need to leave it to chance.
